CLUBS' PRESIDENT DELIVERS ADDRESS

MRS. PENNYBACKER PLEADS FOR CAMPAIGN TO BETTER RURAL LIFE

SPEAKS BEFORE FEDERATION

Calls For General Widening of Scope of Organization's Work—Says Much Has Been Done

By Associated Press

Chicago, June 11—Declaring her belief that "club work is true religion," and proposing that the federatin join in an earnest campaign fo the betterment of rural life, Mr Percy V Pennybacker, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs today addressed the biennial convention of the general federation

She asked that the federation work be widened by being presented before other organizations, by conferences at state federations and primarily by individual effort

"Let us call for volunteers," said Mrs. Pennybacker, "to carry the gospie of the general federation work to every individual club at least once a year I would not hesitate to ask these women to offer their services in the highest missionary spirit for verily the mesasge they will bring is of a genuine religious nature"

"If you could hear as I have heard stories of how sick babies had been saved, of how women to whom every door of life was closed have had their lives made full of hope and courage, of how those hungering in spirit have been comforted and refreshed you would not feel that I have overstated the matter when I claim that club work is true religion

'If we could bring about these three things during the next two years—if we could deliver our message before every other state organization, if we could have a live general federation session at each state meeting, if we could secure fervid consecrated women to carry a message to every individual club, we would find it easy to accomplish any reform we undertook"

The rural betterment campaign proposed by Mrs. Pennybacker which she declared wiuld be both inspirational and a concrete accomplishment looked toward providing comfortable homes for country school teachers

"As a country," said Mrs Pennybacker, "we are almost united upon the fact that the great question facing us is the betterment of rural life It is not enough that for our rural people to produce more in the fruits of the field, they must have opportunity to live more If we, the million women in this federation would concentrate for the next two years in an effort to bring about a model settlement, and especially to establish teachers' homes, or teacherages, as they are called, in connection with at least one school building in each county, we would be serving the entire nation

"The day will come when a poet will arise to sing the virtues and unselfish service of the country teacher If the school is to be a real center of the best social life in the community, it must be presided over by a teacher who has at least some degress of permanecy Nothing will sooner give this permanency than a comfortable house, with a plot of ground, where the teacher can have a settled feeling.

"By giving the teacher a home where he might become a dominant force in the comunity life, we would be giving every department in our federation a new avenue for reaching the people Art, civics, conservation civil service, reform, home economics industrial and social condition, legislative, literature and library, music and public health, would be called upon to serve in such a community as this

"There are today other forces thinking, planning and working along the line I have indicated, all stand ready to co-operate with us in this service

"If you ask me how shall we go to work to secure this, I would not dare answer We must study before acting But this I know full well, if we go at this conscientiously, thoughtfully, prayerfully, the way will open'

"Are you willing to work for this concrete accomplishment and two years from now report what we have been able to help to bring to pass"

The national president told of the increase in the ranks of the general federation since the last biennial convention six hundred and seventy clubs having been admitted leaving no state unrepresented in the federation roll She spoke of the routine work attached to the presidential office and jokingly observed that it might be well to have three presidents, "one to stay at home, to answer the enormous mail to think, to study and to plan, a second to travel and accept the host of invitations to speak and a third, a social and eating president"

Mrs Pennybacker touched feelingly on the help she had received from former officers and from club women throughout the country She suggested that the establishment of an efficiency commission to work out the problems of the federation would be a step forward

Her closing words were: "Thankful for the past, hopeful for the future, let us gird on our armor and press forward."

UNIONIST VICTORY ON HOME RULE BILL

PREMIER ASQUITH ANNOUNCES HE WILL INTRODUCE AMENDING MEASURE

NOW UP TO HOUSE OF LORD

Upper Body Is Expected To Provide For Unconditional Exclusion of Ulster Province

By Associated Press

London, June 11—Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons today his intention to introduce the promised bill to amend the Irish home rule bill before any further progress is made by the House of Lords with the second reading of the main measure.

The Unionists thus have won the day with their insistent demand that he should take action The Lords will be entirely free to change the amending bill as they think proper and it is generally assumed they will insert provisions for the unconditional exclusion of Ulster from the operations of the Irish home rule bill and also for the protection of the Protestant minority in the rest of Ireland The Unionists in this way will be enabled to test how far the government and the Irish Nationalists are preparing to go in the direction of a compromise

The new bill is not likely to be brought into the House of Lords before the week beginning June 21.

FINAL PANAMA VOTE IS EXPECTED TODAY

LONG SPEECHES DELAY ACTION IN SENATE AND NIGHT SESSION LIKELY

FURTHER CHANGES UNLIKELY

Not Believed Any Additional Amendments Will Be Adopted in Final Passage

By Associated Press

Washington, June 11—Voting on further amendments to the repeal of the Panama Canal tolls exemption halted in the Senate today while Senator Brandegee, Republican, made a long speech in favor of the bill The prospect of other long speeches before the voting began upon the repeal itself promised to lengthen the day's session into the night and Majority Leader Kern planned to hold the Senate in session until a vote was reached.

The last stage of the most spectacular legislative fight Congress has seen since the Democratic party came to power, attracted hundreds to the capitol Despite the wilting heat, the Senate gallery was packed Members of the House crowded upon the floor

Members of the opposition, both Republicans and Democrats, were making no apparent effort to delay a vote but many had various qualifying resolutions prepared upon which they intended to force record rollcalls Administration leaders reiterated that they had the votes to hold the measure intact as it stands with the Norris-Simmons compromise amendment and pointed to the record vote of yesterday to sustain their contention

As a third principal achievement of the Democratic administration, leaders looked back upon the fact of the tariff and currency acts as the others, were sure of the concurrence of the House in the compromise amendment and its acceptance by President Wilson.

In debate today reminders of the acrid charges of relations between the repeal and the foreign policy of the United tStates were not missing and many observers looked upon the fight drawing to a close as one of the most bitter contests within the Democratic party Senator Root returned to his seat today to vote for repeal

By a vote of fifty to thirty-six on the first amendment offered today by the anti repeal forces, it was apparent that the repeal forces lost no strength over night The vote was on an amendment by Senator Works, Republican, who sought to change the language reserving American rights to tolls exemption Ten Democrats voted for the agreement and thirteen Republicans voted against it

RULINGS ISSUED BY ATTORNEY GENERAL

SIX OPINIONS ANNOUNCED TODAY DEALING WITH PRIMARY NEXT MONTH

DISTRICT CANDIDATES' NAMES

Law Is Explained With Reference to Making Applications for Place on Ballot

By Associated Press

Austin, Texas, June 11—The attorney general's department today announced six important rulings bearing on the general election law in regard to the primaries to be held next month The rulings follow

1. Residence in the county six months before the November election and in the State for more than a year last passed is necessary to become a candidate for a county office

2. District candidates where the district is composed of more than one county, cannot get their names on the official ballot after the expiration of the first Monday in June, but if the district comprises only one county, application is limited to Saturday before the third Monday in June.

3 Where a district candidate did not file his application with the district chairman, but before the expiration of the third Monday in June filed his application with the chairman of the respective counties composing the ditsrict this was held to be a compliance with the law

4 Where the executive committee of the county desires to send the election supplies to the presiding judge in a precinct by parcels post, this was held to be regular and permissible by law

5 Where the application of a candidate to have his name placed upon the official ballot composing more than one county was placed in the mail before the expiration of the first Monday in June, but did not reach the chairman until after the expiration of said day, it was held that the name of this candidate should be placed upon the official ballot

6. The department held that it was necessary for a man to have resided in the State twelve months and in the county six at the time he offers to vote in order that he may be a qualified voter with reference to residence It would not be sufficient to entitle him to vote where he will have been in the county six months at the general election.

FALL OF MAZATLAN IS BELIEVED NEAR

CONSTITUTIONALISTS NOW MAKING VIGOROUS ASSAULT ON ESIEGED CITY

FEDERA GUNS ARE DISABLED

Neutral Com e is Established for Nonts—Japanese Minister Has Returned

By A ed Press.

On rd U. S California, Mazatlan, June 10, via wireless to San Diego, Cal, June 11—Heavy volley firing on the outskirts of Mazatlan was heard tonight It is believed the constitutionalists are advancing for a determined assault. A well directed attack, it is thought, will result in the capture of the city The constitutionalists captured a strategic hill north of the city Tuesday night The constitutilnalist forces besieging Mazatlan, it was learned today, stormed the walled cemetery which fell into their possession

The discovery was made today that the breech plugs of all the federal garrison's guns except one at Fort Rosales, were missing The artillery officer in charge has decamped Fearing that the neutral zone recently designed for non-combatants, might night be respected in the attack, the entire consular corps at Mazatlan sent a note today through Rear Admiral Howard, commanding the United States Pacific fleet to General Iturbe, the constitutionalist commander again requesting that the zone be safe guarded

The German consul has sent a letter of thanks to Admiral Howard for protecting the German interests The Japanese minister Adachi, returning to Mexico City after an unsuccessful effort to reach the west coast, arrived safely, it is reported at Guadalajara, where he was met by the secretary of the Japanese legation with a special train The train carries three automobiles for use in case progress by rail is blocked

On the way out the minister's train was delayed at Sayula, where the constitutionalists had torn up their tracks in their successful attacks on the city.

STEAMSHIP ANTILLA ARRIVES AT TAMPICO.

Tampico, June 10, via Laredo June 11—The steamship Antilla, supposed to be bringing arms and ammunition for the constitutionalist army arrived here today and anchored off the city wharf. She is to discharge her cargo tomorrow.

Balkans Reported to Be Driving Bulgarian Citizens Out—Another Conflict Foreshadowed

By Associated Press

London, June 11—Another war between Greece and Turkey is foreshadowed today by the Times, which says the unrest in the Balkans has become acute. Several of the States, it says, have recently been employed in clearing their newly acquired territories of "undesirable" elements and the Bulgarians have been the principal sufferers.

The unrest is attributed by the newspaper to the drastic policy of the young Turks in expelling all Greeks from Asia Minor and Turkish Thrace.

It believes this policy is a prelude to a declaration of war upon Greece, the main object being the reconquest by Turkey of Saloniki and the re-occupatiln of Macedonia.

SERIOUS DISORDERS IN ITALIAN STRIKE

ORDER FOR CESSATION IS NOT OBSERVED BY UNION SYMPATHIZERS

FATAL FIGHT WITH TROOPS

Reaction Seems to Have Set In on Part of Public, Now Less Friendly to Strikers

By Associated Press

Rome, June 11—In spite of the order given last night for the cessation of the Italian general strike declared on Monday, serious encounters between strikers and the police and troops were reported today from various places At Bari eleven strikers were wounded in a riot, while at Naples one striker was killed, three fatally wounded and seventeen others seriously injured during an attack by a crowd on the military barracks The attack was repulsed by the troops after several volleys had been fired

A strong reaction appears to have set in against the extreme element among the workmen, especially in Rome and in Florence where the populace today participated in demonstrations in favor of the authorities

A stormy sitting of the Chamber of Deputies was brought to an end with a speech by Premier Salantra who declared the authorities were determined to preserve public order A motion introduced by the extreme Socialists naming the government for the disturbances during the strike, was rejected, 254 to 112.

CARRANZA'S REPLY BEING TRANSMITTED

UNDERSTAND IT INQUIRES QUESTION OF ARMISTICE, ALTOGETHER

MAY SEND THEIR EMISSARIES

Latter Might be Permitted to Discuss Matters With Mediators in Informal Way

By Associated Press

Niagara Falls, June 11—Reports from Saltillo that General Carranza's answer to the last communication to the mediators has been transmitted to Niagara Falls was interpreted here as meaning that Rafeal Zubaran, special constitutionalist representative in Washington, had been sent instructions on which to draft the reply.

Intimations have come from El Paso and other sources that the constitutionalist answer will refuse to declare an armistice in that the subject will be ignored, but that the note will announce the intention of the constitutionalists to send emissaries here to discuss the Mexican problem, leaving indefinite the nature of the instructions given to the delegates

Would Not Admit Delegates.

What the mediators would say to such a proposition is not difficult to conjecture, for they have taken a stand that unless an armistice is declared there will be no admission for the constitutionalist delegates Nevertheless the mediators have indicated they would not be averse to discussing questions informally with representatives of General Carranza if they came here

The injection of the question of constitutionalist representation at this time would tend somewhat to divert the proceedings from the course they have assumed The issue today is clearly drawn between the American government and the mediators The United States has been insisting on two essential points—the character of the individual who is to be provisional president and the exact method by which he is to be installed

Not Carranza or Villa.

The American government is insistent that the triumph of the revolution should be recognized and a constitutionalist installed Neither General Carranza or General Villa, however, is desired by the United States for provisional president nor is any other of the prominent military chiefs

The Mexican delegates have not yet formally expressed their views, but they contend that the new president should be neutral.

COST OF WAR DURING 1913

Many Converts Made to Peace Cause by the Fierce Struggle in the Balkans.

The Balkan war has made innumerable converts to the peace cause, declares Frederick Lynch in the Yale Review. It has revolted the twentieth century conscience It has made thousands ask the question that Life asked under its famous picture: "Must It Always Be?" More men than ever have said: "Surely there must be some better way!" Many are saying: "Is what one gets worth the price paid for it?" This change of heart has been noticeable in the daily press. There has been a distinct progress toward the advocacy of judicial methods during the year. This has not all been due to the exhibition of savage hatred in the Balkans, nor to the inhuman atrocities perpetrated by all concerned, but it was partly come about from the revelation of the futility of it all. Hundreds and thousands of lives have been lost, thousands of homes are fatherless and poverty stricken, the nations are bankrupt and without resources for the future; for the next hundred years taxes will be of abnormal proportions; worst of all, there are no young men left to breed a future race. It has all caused many to ask if wars accomplish anything in the long run that could not much better be gained by judicial and peaceable methods. I have a lurking suspicion, from what I heard in Italy last year, that many Italians feel the same way after the war in Tripoli. Everywhere, in England and America, as well as in Germany, many have been asking: "Who starts war scares? Who advocates increase of armaments and big navies?" Yes, "Who originates wars themselves?"

PROBABLY DIDN'T GET JOB

Applicant for Federal Position Made Big Mistake When He Failed to Get Underwood's Name.

Early in Oscar Underwood's service in congress, when Mr. Cleveland was president, Underwood was made referee for federal patronage in his district in Alabama.

One day Underwood was out campaigning some miles from Birmingham, and he stopped at a little village where there was a sawmill that employed a good many hands. He knew the sawmill owner, and was talking to him when a doctor who lived in a village near by, where the postmaster had just died, came along in a buggy.

The doctor stopped at the sawmill The sawmill boss introduced him to Underwood, but the doctor had other fish to fry, and paid no attention to Underwood, and apparently didn't get his name. He produced a petition and said:

"Now, boys, the postmaster over in our town has just died, and I'm a candidate for the job. I'm getting up a petition to send to Washington, recommending me for the place. I wish you boys would sign it."

Some of the boys did, and finally the doctor handed the petition to Underwood. Underwood looked at it. It was addressed to the Honorable Oscar Underwood, referee for federal patronage at Washington.

"I can't sign this," said Underwood. "I don't live in this community."

"Oh, go on and sign it," urged the doctor. "What difference does that make? That young fool Underwood won't know the difference when he gets it—and I want the job."

Skirts Wear Out Shoes.

"The close relation between garment styles and shoe styles is recognized by every manufacturer and distributor of footwear," says a trade authority. "The slit skirt, for example, accentuates the demand for neat footwear.

"To the extent to which the fashionable skirt displays the foot is also attributable the demand for the light, turned sole. The tendency to its adoption is growing stronger each season, and the output of turns as compared with welts, in nearly every factory, shows a large increase.

"The question has of late been asked, 'Why it is that turned shoes do not seem to wear as long today as they did in former seasons?' The answer is, it is the narrow skirt that does it. The well-dressed woman—and this applies to the great majority of American women—is obliged to take twice as many steps as she used to before the introduction of the present style."

Ancient Money.

In biblical days silver and gold coins were struck of such weight that one of them represented the value of a particular animal. Thus the word kesitah used in Genesis translated "pieces of money," means, literally, a lamb. The Latin pecunia, from which comes our word pecuniary, comes from pecus, a general name for sheep and the smaller animals. In early times coins bore figures of a horse, a bull or a hog, together with the names of the animals pictured. Afterward, as values changed, the figures upon the coins no longer bore representations of their value in cattle, but figures representing a rose, an eagle, etc.

World's Naval Armament.

Only eight years have passed since Britain laid down her first dreadnought, but by the end of this year the approximate number of dreadnoughts in the world, built or building, will be 150. The rate of increase is as follows: One in 1905, nine in 1906, 24 in 1907, 32 in 1908, 52 in 1909, 74 in 1910, 97 in 1911, 126 in 1912 and 150 in 1913.

NOT LIKE THE REAL THING

Critic of Novelists Complains That Writers Do Not Properly Represent Life as It Is.

Mrs Durnford was known to disapprove of literary people, writes Mrs. Mary C. E. Wemyss in "People of Popham," and her proud boast was that she never read novels "I can see life as it is, without its being made ridiculous by people who know nothing about it," she would declare.

"You see, Miss Hope, what I object to in writing is this," said Mrs. Durnford. "You set out to write a book, which heaven forbid! You write about me' Well, you haven't the least idea what I am thinking about! You say, 'Mrs. Durnford was very much touched when I told her about old Mr. Tubb's death. Her eyes filled with tears.' Well, they didn't. I wanted to sneeze, that was all! See?"

"Well, that would be called literary license. I am sure you would feel the death of a Mr. Tubb dreadfully; I can imagine any one would," I said.

"I just happened to think of the name. I don't suppose a name makes any difference," she replied. "And in describing love, my dear. You may have had proposals, of course. If you have, you will know that not one man in fifty kneels. I shouldn't have respected Doctor Durnford's intelligence if he had. Now take proposals in books! Pages and pages, chapters sometimes, whereas the real thing happens like this: Doctor Durnford met me at the corner of the road, by the sign post, and he asked me what I was going to do, and I said I was going for a walk. And he said, very naturally, I thought, 'May I come, too?' I bowed. Then he said nothing till we got to Dyer's Pond, and then he said, 'May I walk with you through life?' I said, 'Yes.' That was all. He gave me the ring; it was in his pocket. Diamonds and sapphires, small, but large enough."

"She went on:

"What could be simpler? We had an oak suite in the dining-room, a mahogany suite in the consulting-room, a satinwood suite in the drawing-room and ash in the bedroom. We had good carpets throughout, changing on the stairs from pile to cord at my bedroom. They are all as good today as they were then."

I said I thought she had chosen most wisely, both in husband and furniture.—Youth's Companion.

NOT SPOILED BY POSITION

President of the French Republic Pleased to Greet Humble Companion of His Boyhood.

A pretty little incident that throws a pleasing light upon the character of the president of France occurred recently at a banquet given by the French bar to President Poincare.

At the close of the dinner M. Poincare called up the waiter who had watched over his comfort. "Thank you, Jacques," he said quietly, and shook him by the hand At the same time the president managed to slip a bank note into the waiter's palm.

"I won't have it!" cried Jacques, and to the amusement and astonishment of the guests there ensued a friendly struggle between the waiter and the president of the republic.

M Poincare ended the amicable dispute by pushing the note into the man's pocket and good-naturedly slapping him on the back. The waiter could not resist this sincere geniality, and finally, after another handshake, retired, wreathed in smiles

When the president turned back to the table he noticed the perplexed looks on the faces of the guests, who did not know what to make of the scene

"You see," he explained simply, "I was at school with Jacques at Sampigny."—Youth's Companion.

Valuable Horse.

The talk in the lobby of a Washington hotel the other evening turned to horses, and Congressman Thomas W Hardwick of Georgia recalled an incident that recently happened in the south

Rambling along the road one morning a colored party named Rastus met his neighbor, Sambo. Instantly it was seen that Rastus had large tidings to impart.

"Look yeah, Sambo," he excitedly remarked, "did yo' know dat somebody done gone steal Deacon White's hoss las' night?"

"Yo' doan mean it, Rastus!" exclaimed Sambo, with an expressive cast of countenance. "Did dey find any clue to de t'ief dat done de crime?"

"Yes, dey sush did," answered Rastus. "In de stable whar dey took de hoss from dey find a quo't bottle full oh gin."

"A quo't bottle full oh gin, eh?" returned Sambo. "Good! Den de Deacon doan lose nuttin' on dat hoss."

Rabbits Know Geography.

Since the Connecticut game law went into effect there has been much trouble along the state line over Rhode Island shooters coming over to this side. Connecticut game wardens and protectors are scattered all along the line looking out for law violators who plead ignorance of the state line whereabouts.

Two Providence men were fined $30.44 for each rabbit "holed" for they hadn't caught any.

One of the men said:

"Them gosh hanged rabbits appear to be well posted on southern New England geography, and coax us over the line so you darned loafers can get a chance to make money by roping us in."—East Killingly (Conn.) Dispatch to N. Y. Herald.

DROPPED TRUNKFUL OF G'S

Peculiar Exhibit Used by Mrs. Billtops for the Reformation of Her Husband.

"Ezra," said Mrs Billtops to her admiring husband, "I have something here that I desire you should see," and as she spoke she threw back the lid of a big trunk in the storeroom.

The trunk was full, level full, of a vast number of little things of uniform size that might have been oats or grains of wheat, but which upon a little closer inspection seemed to be small type letters.

"They are letters, Ezra," said Mrs. Billtops; "they are the g's you have dropped in the last three years."

And the meaning of this exhibit was clear to Mr. Billtops instantly; he was not really a dull man; it was not necessary to hit him with a maul to make him understand things. Mr. Billtops has always been a great man for dropping his g's. Whether from carelessness or laziness or economy of his speech, or whatever his prompting, he has always said seein' for seeing and bein' for being, and doin' for doing, and this has always disturbed Mrs. Billtops. Time and again she has sought to get him in this respect to mend his ways, but habit has proved too strong for him, and so finally she resolved to give him an object lesson.

"Three years ago, Ezra," she said, "unbeknown to you I began gathering up the g's you dropped in speaking. I started out to keep them in an empty fruit jar, but I soon found that wouldn't do, in fact I was appalled by the number I collected

"I found that much as you had disturbed me in this way I had still never realized how bad you were; so I began storing them in this trunk, and here you see, Ezra, a trunkful of g's that you have dropped in three years. Don't you think that is terrible?"

Mr. Billtops freely admitted that it certainly was; and then and there in the presence of that open trunk he vowed a reform. If she would throw away those g's, he said, right now, to the last one, he would most earnestly endeavor always to remember to make it ever impossible for her to start another collection

Just to See the Ball Game.

"My!" exclaimed little Jimmy as he gazed at the lithograph. "I'd like to be a giraffe. Just think how easily you could 'rubber' over the baseball fence."

"That's all right," replied Johnny, "but there is another time when you wouldn't want to have a neck like a giraffe."

"When is that?"

"Why, in the mornings when your ma begins to scrub your neck with soap and water."

If we get Carranza right, his idea of this mediation is to whip Huerta first and mediate afterwards And, furthermore, we can t help but believe that Carranza's idea is the best This nation started out in this Mexican trouble by declaring it would not recognize Huerta on any part of the ground

If you expect to go abroad for the summer, have the Times follow you Some big things are scheduled for Wichita Falls during the summer and you will want to keep posted The Times can be depended on to do that for you

Mr Jennings of Winters has started something He cultivates vacant lots There are thousands of acres of land in this country lying idle in vacant lots It it should all be placed in cultivation it would prove a practically new source of revenue—Temple Telegram

If the vacant lots would only produce corn, cotton, potatoes, garden truck, etc, by being cultivated like they do sun flowers, weeds and grass they would not only present a better appearance, but would be worth more to their owners It is not a bad idea at all.

The friends of Candidate Ferguson say that Ball should not be elected governor because that up to the time he became a candidate, he was a corporation lawyer No one denies the truth of that statement It is a fact But in what respect does that give Mr Ferguson an advantage over Col Ball As the Times understands, Mr Ferguson is also a corporation man, being a joint owner of a large corporation of which he is an officer and director, and so far as the Times is aware, he has not yet severed his connection with that corporation However, that is nothing to Mr Ferguson s discredit Corporations, generally speaking, are owned and officered by the safest brainiest and soundest men they can secure The state of Texas is a bigger and more gigantic concern and more difficult to handle than all the corporations put together She needs and must have a big brained man to govern her affairs Then why all this fuss about electing as our governor a man who was the attorney for a corporation for a number of years, or one who even now is largely interested in a corporation? In our own humble opinion, there is absolutely nothing to such argument, unless it be that the Democrats of Texas are expected to select their governor from among a bunch of small potato men, usually classed as professional politicians or peanut statesmen. The Times is of the opinion that neither Colonel Tom Ball or Candidate Ferguson belong to that class Theer is this much on that score to ssy in favor of Col Ball He severed his connection with the corporation he was working for at the time he became a candidate for governor Until Mr Ferguson does likewise he should not criticise his opponent and when he does he is going over some tolerably thin ice

REGARDING THE SPILLWAY

Editor Daily Times

Dear Sir Referring to your editorial in the Times for June 10th 1914, regarding the road crossing at the spillway at Lake Wichita beg to advise that the statement made in the Times a short time ago that this roadway was now in fine shape was correct After the severe rains in December we had numerous loads of rock gravel and sand placed on this road and the same levelled and placed in good condition The recent overflow of the lake, however, has washed out the sand and gravel.

As soon as conditions permit, we intend replacing this road in good condition and some time during this summer we expect to build a concrete roadway across the spillway so that the farmers will experience no difficulty in crossing the spillway

At the present time we are preparing plans for very extensive repairs at Lake Wichita. The improvements will cover rip rapping the entire face of the main dam and also widening and deepening of the spillway and the erection of reinforced concrete dam across the entire width of the spillway. The object of the concrete dam at the spillway is to allow the overflow water of the lake to be carried off in a broad sheet of water so as to prevent the sudden and excessive rise of water in the lake and to prevent the undue erosion of the spillway.

Yours very truly,
F N LAWTON,
Manager Wichita Falls Water Co

A MACEDONIAN CALL TO CONE JOHNSON

Cone Johnson, of Texas, now at Washington as a part of the government, is going to Pennsylvania soon to make speeches there in behalf of Hon A Mitchell Palmer The latter, who is a warm friend of President Wilson, is now a member of the lower house of congress, from the Keystone State. But he aspires to represent Pennsylvania in the Senate of the United States, and will be voted on in the coming primary there He is having hopes of winning, but not certain and has asked Cone Johnson to go on the stump and make some speeches for him The Texan has agreed to do so, and will ere long be on the hustings And then the Pennsylvania voters will hear eloquence that is worth while. Texans know what Cone Johnson can do as a speaker in a political campaign—or a campaign for morality, for that matter He will be a revelation to the Pennsylvania folk For years to come the men who hear the Texan will be recalling Cone Johnson—his eloquence and his logic—he will be a tower of strength for Mr Palmer and for the democratic administration For it is to be kept in mind that Mr Palmer s fight for a seat in the Senate is also a fight for the policies and purposes of Woodrow Wilson the Democratic President, and the Democratic majority in the congress The record of the administration will be on trial in Pennsylvania and other states, and it is gratifying that such men as Mitchell Palmer and Cone Johnson will be in the thick of the fight, to make the arguments and the defense that must be made It will be so in virtually all the close or doubtful states and Democrats can hardly fail to realize how important it is that the course of the President generally speaking shall be vindicated that the Democratic majority in the lower branch of congress shall be kept there, to the end that the administration shall be equipped to keep right on with its program of helpful constructive legislation

And with that thought comes the reflection that in Texas there is a duty for the Democratic friends of the administration It is to make sure that the prestige and influence of the administraton in this state—which gave such potential aid to him in 1912—shall not be affected or impaired The Democratic gospel that Cone Johnson will preach in Pennsylvania is and should be current Democratic gospel in Texas—this year and in 1916

COL. JOHNSTON DENIES MAKING ADMISSION

Mr Ferguson said in one of his speeches in the West "that all of the politicians in Texas, large and small were lined up with Colonel Ball In this connection he said, Colonel Johnston had admitted that Colonel Ball would lose Harris county by 5000 and remarked that Colonel Johnston knew it ' The statement that all of the politicians are lined up with Colonel Ball is an exhibition of sarcasm so humorous as to provoke uproarious laughter in every syllable And the statement that 'Colonel Johnston has admitted Colonel Ball will lose Harris county by 5000 majority is another one of those choice misrepresentations of fact ready to be embalmed along with the large number already distributed over the State by Mr Ferguson Colonel Johnston has made no such admission'—Houston Post

EFFORT TO BLOW UP CORONATION CHAIR

NEW AND NOVEL OUTRAGE TODAY IS ATTRIBUTED TO SUFFRAGETTES

LITTLE DAMAGE IS RESULT

Chair is One of Official Relics of Country Having Been in Use Since Year 1296

By Associated Press

London, June 11—An attempt to blow up the coronation chair has been in Westminister Abbey since 1296 was made this evening The outrage is attributed by the authorities to militant suffragettes

The chair, generally called St Edwards chair, out of respect to Edward the Comfessor, near whose shrine it stands, was made by order of King Edward I to hold the coronation stone or 'stone of destiny' on which the ancient Scottish kings used to sit when they were crowned it was captured by Edward I from the Scots

The damage caused to the chair by today s explosion was slight The explosive had been placed beneath it but its effects seemed not to reach the chair itself, which of solid oak covered with gilding and ornamental work The famous old stone, however, was badly chipped

Legend Surrounds Stone

Legend says the stone is the identical one upon which the Biblical patiarch Jacob laid his head when he had the vision of the angels descending the ladder that reached to heaven Police quickly took possession of the abbey after the outrage The explosion occurred while Reginald McKenna was talking on the suffrage question in the House of Commons The detonation was plain by heard in Parliament and members of the Commons and peers flocked out into Parliament square to ascertain what had happened

Those in the vicinity at the time of the explosion said they heard two reports which they described as terrific The fabric of the Abbey building was said to have been slightly damaged but as the police kept all inquirers at a distance this could not be confirmed Two young women who were in the abbey at the time were arrested and subsequently removed to a police station

The bomb appears to have been brought into the abbey in a bag which was placed beneath the seat of the chair

PROHIBITION ISSUE AROUSES CONGRESS

PROBABILITY OF VOTE ON HOBSON RESOLUTION EXCITES MUCH INTEREST

DELAY IS ONLY TEMPORARY

Author of Measure Says if Vote is Not Taken Now, He Will Bring It Up Later

From Sunday s Daily

Washington, June 11—Despite the fact that the House rules committee postponed until July 1 action on a special rule to provide for immediate consideration of Representative Hobson's resolution for national prohibition through an amendment to the federal constitution, prohibition continued today to be a lively topic of discussion in congressional circles

Precipitation of the issue at this time has aroused keener interest at the capitol than in any other question that has come up there in a long while While the committee has deferred consideration of the rule, definite assurances have been given by committee members that they would consider and probably favorably report the resolution providing for a special rule in July

Can Hardly Avoid Vote

In some quarters it was asserted postponement meant no action would be taken during the present session It was confidently predicted at the capital today, however, that the House would be forced to vote on national prohibition in four or five weeks

Representative Hobson today forecasts that his resolution would come up before the House for action on July 6 or 7 In the event the resolution is not passed he announced that he would again be brought up when Congress reconvenes next winter Chairman Henry of the rules committee planned to leave here today for a two weeks visit in Texas No hearings it was stated, will be held by the committee on the special rule

Scotch-Tone Peroxide Face Cream

Greaseless and absolutely pure. A mild skin bleach and skin beautifier. Every time the skin is washed and especially when Soap is used, the skin should be gently massaged with Scotch-Tone Peroxide Cream. Before going out the Cream should be applied as it preserves and protects the skin from the harmful effects of the sun, wind and dust. No matter how rough the weather it will protect the skin and prevent redness or chapping. It is a splendid dressing Cream for every occasion and should be applied not only to the face but to the neck, bust, and arms, then the powder adheres smoothly to the skin. When Face Powder is applied on Scotch-Tone Peroxide Cream, the skin never has that scaly look, but a natural velvety smoothness that can be obtained in no other way. Really, if we charged a dollar instead of 25 cents for this excellent Cream we could not give a better one.

Make this a "RED WING" Summer

I was just comparing notes the other day to see how much grape juice I was selling at the present time as compared with what was sold when grape juice was first produced on the market and I, myself was astonished at the very rapid increase in the sale of this summer beverage. With the introduction in this territory of Redwing Grape Juice I expected to see the sale climb faster and faster. Already I have added quite a number of new customers to my list, who have had trial bottles of this new brand and they are now ordering in case lots and they value its economy as well as its delicious quality. Here's the sizes of bottles I carry and the prices. I'll make a special price on case lots:

The cantata, "Esther, the Beautiful Queen" was then presented. For some time the students had been practicing on this play and it had been worked up to a degree of perfection that was entirely delightful. The solo numbers were uniformly excellent and were much enjoyed and the choruses were rendered with a finish and harmony, unusual in large choruses. Ed B Carver has returned from a ten days' sojourn on his ranch in Culbertson county where he was laid up with a rising five or six days. Mrs. Tucker's BRAND Shortening

THE fat you use for cooking can make or mar the whole meal. Lard is too greasy and indigestible and often imparts an undesirable taste. The cost of butter of dependable quality makes it prohibitive for cooking purposes. Most women are abandoning both lard and butter for Mrs. Tucker's Shortening because it is pure, wholesome, economical, highly digestible. It never varies—is always fresh. Lacks lard greasiness—has butter richness. Fries meats, fish, potatoes, etc., to a fine, crisp brown. Most economical, too; you use less of this shortening. It has

THE AMERICAN FLAG, ITS USE AND FORBIDDEN ABUSE

The American flag is the symbol of brotherhood of man, it stands for chivalry, generosity and honor

No hand must touch it roughly; no hand shall touch it irreverently.

Its position is aloft, to float over its children, uplifting their eyes and hearts by its glowing colors and splendid promises, for under the Stars and Stripes are opportunities unknown to any other nation in the world.

The government commands the people to honor their flag; men and boys should uncover as they pass the vivid stripes which represent the life blood of brave men and the stars which will shine on forever

It must be raised at runrise, lowered at sunset

It is not a plaything of the hour, it is a birthright of privilege and integrity.

It may not be used as staff, whip or covering

It shall not be marred by advertisement, nor desecrated on the stage

It was born in tears and blood; it was baptized in blood and tears

It must always be carried upright

It has floated since June 14, 1777, over a country of benevolence, refuge and progress.

To bear the Star Spangled Banner is an honor, to own one is a sacred trust

It is the emblem of Freedom of equity, of justice for every person and creature as it floats unvanquished, untarnished over the open door of free education

THE KITCHEN CABINET

THE honor of our life
Derives from this: to have a certain aim
Before us always, which our will must seek
Amid the peril of uncertain ways
Then, though we miss the goal, our search is crowned
With courage, and along the path we find
A rich reward of unexpected things.

GOOD THINGS, OLD AND NEW.

The following is an old recipe:

Honey Cakes.—Take one quart of strained honey, add one-half pint of sugar, the same amount of melted butter, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in one-half cupful of hot water, half a grated nutmeg and one teaspoonful of ginger Mix all together and add enough flour to roll out. Cut with a cooky cutter and bake in a moderate oven.

Tomatoes and Chipped Beef.—Brown a tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan Peel and slice two ripe tomatoes, fold in flour, season with salt and a sprinkling of cayenne and fry five minutes in butter, turning to cook both sides. A little sliced onion can be added if desired Over this spread evenly one cupful of chipped beef, cover closely and cook twenty minutes without stirring

Cottage Soup—Put into a saucepan a tablespoonful of sweet drippings, when quite hot add a half pound from the neck of mutton, cut in small pieces. Put them and the bones into the fat and fry, turning until well browned Cut up one carrot and one turnip into small pieces, two large onions cut fine, added to the meat Keep turning until all are well mixed, then add a cupful of rice and a teaspoonful each of sugar and salt Cook for five minutes, then add two and a half quarts of water Put on the lid and boil for an hour Add pepper and salt when ready to serve.

A Pretty Salad.—Lay a half of a pear on a crisp leaf of lettuce, put eight maraschino cherries and four small cream cheese balls around the pear, and cover with French dressing.

English Dessert. — Cut bananas lengthwise into halves, spread with jam, put together again and lay on a plate; cover with whipped cream and serve

The jam roll takes the place of the jelly roll and is equally as good.

Pork chops baked with potatoes makes a most tasty dish Put sufficient sliced potatoes, well salted, in a baking dish, pour on water and lay on the chops. Turn chops once while baking. The drippings season the potatoes.

OKLAHOMA LEASES WILL NOT BE TAXED

COURT DECIDES QUESTION ALSO PENDING IN THIS STATE'S HIGHEST TRIBUNAL

IS TAX ON "VISTA OF HOPE"

Such Is Language of Judge—Action Is Expected Upon Wichita County Case This Month

While oil men in this county are awaiting anxiously the decision of the Texas supreme court on the oil lease tax question the question has been decided i ntlie Oklahoma The supreme court has held such leases are not subject to tax While the laws of Oklahoma on this subject may differ from those of Texas, the opinion of Chief Justice Kane of the Oklahoma tribunal lays down some general propositions on the subject that might be considered applicable in Texas

To undertake to tax an oil or gas lease is to undertake to impose a tax upon the illimitable vista of hope, says the Oklahoma jurist

Yesterday was opinion day in the Texas supreme court but not decision was handed down in the Wichita county case It is expected that action will be taken this month before the court adjourns for the summer

Under date of June 9 the following Oklahoma City dispatch was printed

Oil and gas leases are not taxable in Oklahoma This was the decision that was reached by the supreme court today, in an opinion by Chief Justice Kane, in the celebrated Indian Territory Illuminating Company oil lease on rehearing

In the opinion of today the court reasoned that if taxed at all these leases are to be considered as realty and not otherwise It was held that real property includes buildings structures, improvements of all kinds and rights and privileges thereto belonging "or in anywise appertaining to and all mines, minerals, quarries and trees on or under the same, must be listed and assessed in the name of the owner of the land"

Summing up the reason, the court said "We therefore conclude that oil and gas, while lying in the strata of Mother Earth, from which they are produced, constitute a sort of subterranean faera naturea, which, if taxed at all prior to being reduced to possession, must be taxed as real property, to the owner of the land under which for the time being they may lie and can not be taxed against one who has a mere lease or license to go upon the premises, search for and if found take them away

'It seems to us that this is the most scientific method for imposing taxation upon this class of property To undertake to tax an oil or gas lease is to undertake to impose a tax upon the illimitable vista of hope Many instances are known where lessees have paid thousands of dollars bonus for a lease and have not discovered a drop of oil and many other instances are known where the leases have cost comparatively nothing and oil has been found in large quantities Whether oil is under any particular tract of land is beyond the ken of man until a well has been drilled and even then no one can foresee how long the well will last or what its production will be A great many people speculate in these oil and gas privileges, a few get rich while others fail Under the system of taxation devised by the legislature the wealth produced by the oil industry the production of oil, the capital invested in its production the oil on hand and the oil in place are taxed

We can find no justification in the law for an additional exaction'

DALLAS AUTOISTS START SAFETY FIRST CAMPAIGN

Making of Playgrounds out of Streets Causes Launching of Movement For Fewer Accidents

By Associated Press

Dallas, Texas, June 11—Advent of summer and vacation time, when hundreds of city children are forced into the streets for a play ground, has caused the launching of a city-wide Safety First campaign by the Dallas Automobile Club which it is expected will materially reduce the number of accidents which the summer annually brings

'This is not a work that can be carried on by any one group," was the significant statement which opened a recent call issued by the club Co-operation was asked of all classes, that children should be taught to be cautious, that pedestrians should exercise judgment in crossing busy streets and that drivers of all vehicles, horse, motor and electric should on their part use discretion at all times Discussing the cause of accidents the club stated

'No single class of travel is responsible for all the accidents that occur Pedestrians are often as much at fault as drivers Unforeseen natural causes and mechanical imperfections that cannot be found by tests are the only real causes of real accidents"

Other causes of "other accidents" are listed as disregard of the rights of others the erroneous idea that one has the right of way and trying stunts on a thoroughfare

HER PREMONITION OF DEATH

Circumstances That Led Prominent Woman to Live Ever in Fear of Impending Disaster.

A most touching account of the premonition of coming trouble which she experienced before the tragic drowning of her children at Paris, was given by Isadora Duncan, the dancer, whose poetic interpretations charmed the people of two continents.

Two months before the unhappy accident, the bereaved woman was continuously haunted with visions of death. Consulting her physician, she was assured that she was "suffering from nerves." When playing in Russia shortly afterward, so strong was her conviction, one night, that her own death was imminent, that she left a letter containing her "last words" on her dressing table, before going onto the stage. Again one night on the train she seemed to hear Chopin's Funeral March all night long. At the same time she seemed to see a vision which produced so vivid an impression that on the stage next evening, entirely without rehearsal, she reproduced it in motion, reducing her audience to tears. "All through my performance," Miss Duncan says: "I felt as though I were marching to my grave through an icy wind, and afterward with a melody of resurrection, a sort of ecstacy that was not earthly."

The very day of the terrible accident, the mother had packed her little ones, who had accompanied her with their nurse to Paris, for a little outing, where their lodgings were, as she was to remain in Paris for the rest of the day; and in saying good-bye she playfully kissed the lips of one of her children through the glass. Contact with the cold pane struck a chill to the mother's heart and a strange foreboding overcame her as the motor whizzed out of sight. A few minutes later the children were hurled from the overturned car into the Seine.

DEATH'S MOST ACTIVE AGENT

Worry, Never Hard Work, Responsible for the Decimation of the Human Races.

We hear daily of men and women who are "working themselves to death." But work is as surely the friend of man as worry is his deadliest foe. Unless carking care and sickening foreboding are blent with labor, work never kills. Yet worry slays its tens and hundreds of thousands every year.

The person who wishes to live long and beneficently should cultivate the desire to see others as comfortable as he wishes to be himself. He must not regret that others are better off in what makes living pleasant.

Here is a fact that some so-called philanthropists never learn: there lives not the human creature who is wholly uninteresting. Be on the alert to espy something in those whom you meet that will commend them to your regard. Listlessness and the capacity for being bored bring more old people to the grave than disease or actual sorrow. If you have no other "job" in life, make one by forcing yourself to be interested in the welfare of your associates.—Youth's Companion.

Midnight Inspirations.

Many eminent men have done some of their most famous work in bed. Indeed, no small part of the world's literary treasures have been produced between the sheets by physically indolent although mentally active men of genius

Longfellow's "Wreck of the Hesperus" came to him as he was sitting by his fireside on the night after a violent storm. He went to bed, but could not sleep; the Hesperus would not be denied, and as he lay the verses flowed on without let or hindrance until the poem was completed

Wordsworth used to go to bed after his morning walk, and, while breakfasting there, dictate the lines he had composed while walking.

One at least of Rossini's operas was composed in bed.—Manchester Evening News.

Real Gratitude.

When Blaine was a young lawyer and cases were few, he was asked to defend a poverty-stricken tramp accused of stealing a watch. He pleaded with all the ardor at his command, drawing so pathetic a picture with such convincing energy that at the close of his argument the court was in tears and even the tramp wept. The jury deliberated a few minutes and returned the verdict "not guilty." Then the tramp drew himself up, tears streaming down his face as he looked at the future "plumed knight" and said: "Sir, I have never heard so grand a plea. I have not cried before since I was a child. I have no money with which to reward you, but (drawing a package from the depths of his ragged clothes), here's the watch; take it and welcome."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Underground New York.

New York's underground population is sufficient to make a city of considerable proportions, for according to the best obtainable statistics about 20,000 persons in New York City spend their entire working hours beneath the surface of the earth These figures include employes on systems of subways now in operation, and the large crew driving that wonderful aqueduct throughout the Island of Manhattan and over into Long Island to carry the waters that are being brought down by siphon from the Catskill mountains Thousands are also employed at other work.

COUNTY ROADS TO SEASON NEGRO FOR COTTON PATCH

"Terrapin" Too Fond of Shade and Gets Sent Over on Charge of Vagrancy

Thirty-five days on the county roads, Judge Howard told Samuel Bannister, alias Terrapin, negro, ought to season him so that he could stand the heat of the cotton patch. Terrapin was in the justice court on a charge of vagrancy. It appeared that he had been hired by a farmer at Goree but after a short period in the cotton field had quit the job and returned to his haunts at Wichita Falls, where he told friends that he had found it too hot for him. The shady side of a house in the negro district not far from the kitchen was more suited to his temperment, negro women told Justice Howard Terrapin didn't seem to be suffering any from the heat when brought into court this morning He wore a suit of heavy ducking and a heavy coat The $25 fine and costs will keep the negro on the county roads about 35 days

MANY CARS WILL BE NEEDED FOR HANDLING WHEAT CROPS

Unprecedented Demand for Rolling Stock Occasioned by Big Yield in This Section

Indications point to an unprecented demand in this section upon the railroads for box cars suitable for shipping grain Railroads in this section are seizing and holding every available car in preparation for the rush that is expected within the next twenty days.

Many points from which it is expected twenty, fifty and even a hundred thousand bushels of wheat will be shipped are without elevators The shippers at those points will want cars to handle the grain as fast as the wheat comes in With scores of points making this demand at the same time it is doubtful whether the railroads will be able to furnish enough cars

Dumplings

For Soups, Stews and Fricasseed Chicken

Left overs of roast lamb, veal or beef, the cheaper cuts of fresh meats, and fowls too old for roasting, make delicious and nourishing stews. K C Dumplings make them doubly attractive and the whole dish is most economical—an object to most families while meats are so high and must be made to go as far as possible.

K C Dumplings

By Mrs Nevada Briggs, the well known baking expert.

2 cups flour; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ½ teaspoonful salt, ¼ cup shortening; milk or cream.

Sift together three times, the flour, baking powder and salt; into this work the shortening and use cream or milk to make a dough less stiff than for biscuits.

Allow the stew to boil down so that the liquid does not cover the meat or chicken. Add half a cup of cold water to stop its boiling and drop the dough in large spoonfuls on top of the meat or chicken. Cover and let boil again for 15 minutes.

Made with K C Baking Powder and steamed in this way, dumplings are as light as biscuits and are delicious with thickened gravy.

This recipe is adapted from one for Chicken Pot Pie in "The Cook's Book" by Janet McKenzie Hill, editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine. The book contains 90 excellent recipes for things that are good to eat and that help reduce the cost of living.

"The Cook's Book" sent free for the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder. Send to Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

Austrian Cooking Fat.

Lard is very expensive in Austria, especially at Carlsbad, consequently it is regarded somewhat as a luxury. As a substitue a preparation known as "speisfett," or cooking fat, is used. It is sold under the name of "ceres," and it is said that its principal ingredient is palm oil This substance is prepared in the towns of Bodenbach and Aussig and sells for 145 crowns for 100 kilos ($13 40 for 100 pounds) in large quantities, or 1 6 crowns a kilo (14½ cents a pound) in small quantities in Carsbad It is put up in cakes weighing one-half kilo (1.1 pounds) and is sold without a container In appearance it is much like cottolene Palm oil, owing to a treaty with Germany, enters Austria under very much more favorable conditions than cotton seed oil, the duty on the former being 2 5 crowns for 10 kilos, while the duty on the latter is 40 crowns.

He Had Heard It.

It was during the lunch hour and four genial business men were sitting at a table. Outside the air was soft and balmy, and everything in nature was a sweet allurement to buy a railroad ticket and beat it for the woods. "It is in my system," remarked one of the party, reflectively glancing through the open window. "There is nothing so appealing as the call of the wild" "It may strike you that way, old fellow," responded another, with a faint smile. "But right here I beg the privilege of casting a dissenting vote." "You don't know what you are talking about, Jim!" emphatically declared the first. "Did you ever hear the call of the wild?" "Yes," replied Jim, with something akin to a sigh, "from the head of the stairs the other night, when I didn't get home till two o'clock in the morning."

Chinese Canals Greatest.

China has led the world in the matter of canal making, and to this day stands first among the nations for the skillful utilization of her inland waterways. One great canal maintains communication between Peking and Canton, a distance of 1,200 miles, and the total extent of the canals of China is over 5,000 miles. Russia owns the longest canal in the world, extending from St. Petersburg to the Chinese frontier, a distance of 4,472 miles, and also the second longest, covering 1,434 miles, between Astrachan and St. Petersburg. As regards numbers of separate canals Holland claims precedence, but her total mileage of inland waterways is only 620 miles.

INTEND BUILDINGS TO LAST

Writer Decries Habit of Putting Up Temporary Structures to Serve on the Farm.

As one looks back over his life on the farm he is dismayed to see how much of it has been spent in doing things that are temporary, that must be done over and over again For ever he is repairing fences or buildings, always there haunts him the knowledge that foundations are giving way, walls bulging and roofs leaking.

The tax on maintenance on the farm is too large, and now is the time to begin to correct this evil, the Breeders' Gazette says. For the sake of our remaining years on the farm, for the sake of the boys who will come after us, let us build for permanence, so far as we are able Concrete makes imperishable foundations and floors. It makes cheap walls for the lower stories of farm buildings Concrete fence posts should last a hundred years. Roofs of tile slate or galvanized iron are fairly imperishable.

In Europe the farmer inherits much more than his land, he inherits buildings so well constructed that while they are hundreds of years old they will yet endure indefinitely The farmer adds a shed or two; he bequeaths then to his son an equipment that is comprehensive, useful and needs no especial work to keep it in repair Let us quit "moving on" in America, but settle down on the land as though we meant to stay there, and signal that intention by beginning the era of permanent construction on the farm.

WORD IMPRESSED THE JURY

Clever Use of Scientific Term Resulted in Acquittal of Lawyer's Client.

The case was one of assault and battery, and one of the witnesses was a local doctor whom the prosecuting lawyer proceeded to bully, suggesting that he was prejudiced in favor of the defendant, and had wilfully distorted his evidence in his favor

The doctor denied this, and went on to say that the defendant was suffering from "phalacrosis" The word caused a sensation in court, and, asked to define the disease, the doctor described it as "a sort of chronic disease of an inflammatory nature which affects certain cranial tissues"

Asked if it affected the mind, the doctor said he was not posing as an expert, but he had known some persons when suffering from the disease become raving maniacs, and others merely foolish Some showed destructive and pugilistic tendencies, while many others had suffered for years and had never shown any mental abnormalities

He refused to say anything further, and the jury promptly acquitted the accused, because, as the foreman explained, "Doc said there was something the matter with his head"

When the case was over the prosecutor sought enlightenment as to the mysterious disease and found that "phalacrosis" meant—baldness.

When Sea Feeds Land.

Seaweed, at one time thought valueless, is a wonderful fertilizer. Tons of it are collected in carts at low tide by the Cornish farmers and around the coast of England

After being dried in heaps, it is spread on the land There its nutritive properties of hydrogen and potash in which it is very rich, are absorbed into the soil, and produce wonderful crops New potatoes from Jersey, and spring cabbages from Cornwall, are raised with seaweed fertilizer The sea also furnishes food for the land in other ways

The despised starfish, in many places known as five-fingers, are eagerly sought and carted away in tons from the coast to fertilize the fields further inland Small fish, too, useless for human food, are sold by the million as manure Rich in phosphates, a primary element in land fertilizers, they are good for almost any kind of root crops.

Supplying a Necessity.

An English policeman entered the house of a publican one morning and informed him that it would be necessary to hold an inquest there in the afternoon Now the landlord had a great objection to anything of the kind, and said "Oh, I can't be troubled with inquests in my house. Here, what'll you have to drink?" Robert said he'd have a drop of Scotch, which he did "Have a cigar, too," said the host. After the consumption of two Scotches and cigars the constable said he thought he could get the inquest held somewhere else, but as he was leaving the landlord remarked "By the way, who are they going to hold the inquest on?" "No one as I know of now," said the man in blue, "but it 'ud 'a' been me if I hadn't had these drinks an' smokes"

Actor's Presence of Mind.

When something goes wrong on the stage the clever and experienced actor can always save the situation by faking An old hand worked it one time like that "Die, villain!" the hero said, and shot off his revolver at the villain's head But the gun didn't go off Six times the hero pulled the trigger, and not a single explosion took place The audience was getting hysterical, when the victim struck an attitude and said "Your pistol has missed fire, Sir Reginald, but what difference does it make? The thought that I was to be shot has frightened me to death!" And he rolled over and died.

B. L. Shield at the Majestic Today With a New Production of the Miller Bros. Ranch

"O, once and a while a bucking broncho kicks over the camera and we lose several feet of film, but it's all in the days work," says B. L. Shield who is i nthe city exhibiting a new picture of the Miller Bros.

Mr Shields has with him hi spet cub bear, "Teddy," that was captured on the Bar L, division of the 101 Ranch three months ago, together with an exceptional collection of various curios and skins, which are being exhibited in the lobby free as a part of the show

The film deals with every detail of the 113,000 acre ranch, showing the mammoth home and headquarters, corrals, branding outfits, cow camp, thousands of head of cattle, horses, sheep, goats, buffalo and hogs, which goes to prove the west of today is not that of old, but has developed into one of the progressive parts of the country. There are no hold ups r shooting scrapes but there is enough bronho busting, steer wrestling and roping to stamp the scenes as real One of the most interesting scenes is a fight for life between Teddy's mother and a two year old steer The fight took place in the Bar L corrals immediately after the capture of the bear and her three baby cubs.
